II. SCOPE OF SERVICES

A. Background

The Board is charged with governing Park County in the best interests of all citizens by protecting their health, safety and general welfare, as well as the County's economic base and the natural environment. In 1978, the Board adopted a planning document entitled "Park County Land Use Planning" to satisfy state law enacted in 1975 requiring all counties to adopt land use plans. In the 20 years that followed, the population grew, and the political, economic, legal and planning environments changed significantly in the County, leading to the need for an updated plan. On September 15, 1998, the Board adopted the Park County Land Use Plan (1998 LUP), which is still in use today.

The 1998 LUP was produced by the following means, among others:

- 1) The work of a community planning task force and an ad hoc committee for each of 12 planning areas in Park County. Their work included the development of a county-wide comprehensive policy statement, as well as vision and policy statements for the various planning areas; the work was completed in 1996.
- 2) A Land Suitability Analysis mapping technique was used to evaluate large areas of Park County in terms of suitability for various land uses and development potential.
- 3) A survey that polled all landowners in unincorporated parts of Park County on a variety of land use matter (55.5% response rate).

The purposes of the 1998 LUP were as follows:

- 1) Amend and update the 1978 County Plan;
- 2) Guide County decision making on land use and development issues;
- 3) Improve the County's existing development regulations;
- 4) Provide a countywide plan;
- 5) Fulfill the expectations of Park County citizens for completion of the Land Use Plan based on the Comprehensive Policy statements prepared to date;
- 6) Meet federal requirements to qualify the County as a "cooperating agency";
- 7) Establish policies for greater county involvement in public land use decision making;
- 8) Plan for rural growth which promotes the lifestyle and quality of life unique to Park County;
- 9) Plan for future annexation areas outside the present cities' limits; and
- 10) Encourage the conservation of open space and agricultural land.

The countywide vision of the 1998 LUP was "Maximize our Resources and Conserve our Heritage." The intent of the 1998 LUP was to project future land use over the 15 years that followed the plan's development with review and updates to the plan anticipated every five years. Unfortunately, due to budgetary and other resource constraints, the 1998 LUP has not been officially reviewed or updated since its inception.

B. Plan Area

Park County is located in northwest Wyoming, south of the Montana State border. Prior to Wyoming becoming a territory in 1868, the principal area of Wyoming, including the area later to become Park County, was comprised of Laramie County and the Dakota Territory. During Wyoming's territorial days, Park County was briefly Carter County which was later changed to Sweetwater County. In 1884, Park County was governed under Fremont County until 1896 when it became a part of Big Horn County. It was during this period in 1890 that Wyoming became a state. Park County was established in 1909 but was not organized until 1911.

As the 4th largest county in Wyoming, Park County spans 6,943 square miles with approximately 1,743 square miles comprising over half of Yellowstone National Park. Incorporated areas in the County include the cities of Cody and Powell, the town of Meeteetse and a portion of the town of Frannie. Clark, Garland, Ralston and Wapiti are small, unincorporated towns. Three rivers flow through Park County: the Greybull and Shoshone Rivers which are tributaries to the Big Horn River, and the Clark's Fork River which flows into the Yellowstone River. Three hard-surfaced highways serve Park County: U.S. Highway 14-16-20 east and west, U.S. Highway 14 Alternate and Wyoming 120 north and south.

Approximately 83% of the land in Park County is publicly managed with nearly 79% managed by federal government entities (US Forest Service, National Park Service, Bureau of Land Management and Bureau of Reclamation) and the remainder managed by state and local government entities. Over half of Yellowstone National Park occupies 25% of the western portion of the County. Forest Service lands occupy a more than 2,650-square mile buffer between Yellowstone and the majority of other public and private lands in Park County. A majority of the private lands in Park County contain agricultural operations. The major industries of Park County are tourism, service industries, retail trade and construction. Local government is the largest employer in the County.

With a total estimated 2018 population of 29,324 (5% of the total population in the State of Wyoming), Park County ranks #8 in the state and has experienced 4% growth between April of 2010 and July of 2018. The unincorporated portion of the County represents approximately one-third of the entire population of the County. At the municipal level, the population breaks down as follows:

- Cody – 9,828
- Powell – 6,310
- Meeteetse - 330
- Frannie – 158 (only a portion of Frannie is in Park County)

C. Project Goals and Objectives

The Board is seeking proposals from qualified professional consultants/firms to update and replace the 1998 LUP, for the unincorporated area of Park County, Wyoming. The primary purpose of the Land Use Plan is to guide the coordinated, efficient and orderly development of Park County that will, based upon the analysis of past trends and future needs, best promote public health, safety and general welfare. More specifically, the updated plan shall:

- Build upon and supplement the foresight presented in the 1998 LUP and present methods to maintain or update the vision for Park County;
- Take into account adopted plans of contiguous local governments to the extent that they affect extra-jurisdictional interests;
- Encourage a more efficient growth pattern to be guided into urban or rural growth centers;
- Provide for the adequate and timely provision of county facilities and services in order to support existing and planned development;
- Direct growth to where county facilities and service capacity are available or committed to be available in the future and provide an adequate supply of buildable land for at least 20 years;
- Promote opportunities for business expansion and creation and the economic health of the county;
- Encourage the development of distinct urban/agricultural perimeters;
- Protect areas of environmental concern;
- Conserve and manage natural resources; and
- Protect life and property from the effects of hazards.

Changes have occurred in land use patterns around Park County since the 1998 LUP's adoption. It is time to once again evaluate and, where necessary, re-establish the county's values and aspirations concerning the future of land use. What is appropriate development in the county as a whole, as well as within the individual planning areas? Are the bounds of the current planning areas and zoning districts reasonable, or should they be adjusted? What defines good growth? How is good growth encouraged? What are the "best planning practices" the county should consider adopting/revising to implement the plan?

The consultant will update the plan by reexamining: the county's vision for itself; its goals, policies and guidelines consistent with an updated vision; appropriate land uses on a county-wide basis; and the ways and means through which the plan can be implemented. Integral to this effort will be clear documentation on how the existing plan has been implemented.

The consultant is responsible for designing and carrying out an effective public participation component. In addition to the possibility of a Steering Committee, periodic interaction with the Planning & Zoning Commission and County Commissioners, throughout the project, is considered essential. The consultant should conduct a series of outreach meetings, or workshops in outlying rural communities of the county. A portion of the plan shall document the public participation process employed. Local ownership of the plan must be evident throughout the development of the plan.

D. Project Tasks, Project Management and Deliverables

It is expected that the Consultant will meet the project goals and objectives, as well as the following tasks, project management objectives and deliverables. The proposal must clearly articulate how the project's goals, tasks and deliverables will be met within the time and budget allotted. All materials collected or created by the selected Consultant become the property of Park County.

1. Tasks

To complete the project, it is expected that the Consultant will:

- a. Review the 1998 LUP and individual planning area comprehensive policy statements from 1996, as well as similar, current documents for the surrounding counties. Consider whether or not the comprehensive policy statements should be updated.
- b. Review pertinent planning documents for the incorporated areas in Park County (i.e. city/town master plans, development plans, growth plans, etc.).
- c. Gather information. Undertake supporting studies that are relevant to elements included in the plan. Emphasis shall be placed on quantifying how the community has changed during the intervening period since 1998. Use of studies conducted by others concerning the future of Park County is highly encouraged. Specific information to be developed by the consultant should include:
 - Population trends and forecasts for the next 20 years, in five-year increments
 - Land use inventories, in tabular and narrative form, of the amount, type, intensity and density for these land uses:
 1. Agriculture (organized by irrigated, dry land crops and range land)

 4. Industrial (organized by general category of intensity)

 6. Education
 7. Parks and Recreation
 8. Forest
 9. Public Utilities

10. Waterbodies

 2. Commercial and industrial land uses

Several County departments have access to a wide variety of documents and geospatial data pertinent to the development of the Land Use Plan. These resources are available to the consultant free of charge.

- d. Evaluate the Land Suitability Analysis that was conducted during the creation of the 1998 LUP and either 1) conduct the same type of analysis and map development or 2) conduct similar analysis that evaluates large areas of the County in terms of suitability for various land uses and development potential and produce maps that clearly communicate the suitability and potential accordingly.
- e. Identify issues, opportunities and goals
- f. Invite others to collaborate. In developing the updated LUP, Park County would like to gather input from relevant local entities throughout the process. - h. Develop draft and final versions of the updated LUP.

To manage the project, it is expected that the Consultant will:
